Introduction

1 Become a powerful presenter

Being a thought-provoking presenter will make the people who hear you speak relate, recall, and react to your presentation.

Craft a Question-Focused Presentation

2 Set your foundation

Every presenter must approach a presentation with a firm foundation.

3 Know your audience

To be dynamic, relatable, and thought-provoking, you must be able to tailor each presentation to a specific audience.

4 Create your presentation roadmap

Having a simplified roadmap keeps you on track as you plan for your presentation and as you present it.

Uncover the What, How, and Why

5 What do you need to know?

A strong presenter can whittle down ideas, refine specifically what the audience needs to know, and then help the audience discover it.

6 How can you achieve your goals?

Asking how demands more from an audience and engages the concepts of steps or processes to achieve the "what." After this lesson, you'll be able ask your audience how they can achieve their goals in order to ignite creativity through exploring various goal-oriented pathways and processes.

7

Why is this important?

Asking why forces an audience to think beyond an end-result or simple formulaic reasoning.

Conclusion

8

Empower your audience
